BEACON OF TOMORROW

- Big fish always believes in building socially responsible and environment friendly businesses.
- Big Fish Ventures regards in contributing back to the society to the best of their abilities.

Umang founded Big Fish Ventures in 2015 and consolidated all operations under one investment vehicle. The company firmly believes in creating innovative concept based dining outlets to give rich and unique experience to its customers. The company comprises of various outlets in the capital and has plans to expand to other cities in India and overseas. Big fish caters to café dining and hang out segment of the market and aims at delivering truly unforgettable eclectic culinary experience to guests from its repertoire of award-winning outlets.

Delhi based Big Fish Ventures, which is behind the premium dining lounges like GaramDharam in the capital, is planning to raise funds amounting about Rs 200 crore. They are essentially looking out for venture capital funding. This funding will be utilized to open new outlets over the next couple of years, as reported to the source.

Big Fish Ventures has plans to launch restaurant brands in the casual dining space, cafes and lounges, under names such as Public Connection, Oh My God (OMG), Junkyard and Three Peg Down by next quarter.

“Most firms are focused on creating single brands with standardised formats like, for example, a McDonald’s or a KFC. We are building a cluster of concept-based different brands across genres and large formats,” said Tewari.

The company claims to have made a sales worth a whopping of Rs 50 crore in this fiscal year. Big Fish is also engaging with Nishant Singhal, who is the co-founder of startup venture fund YouWeCan Ventures, which is primarily owner by cricketer Yuvraj Singh.
