BEACON OF TOMORROW

The most salient features which distinguish RezLive.com from its competitors are:

- Mapped inventory
- Reconfirmation of every booking made on system

Conventionally if travel agents wanted any information about a destination, they conducted their own study, did price comparisons, and asked relatives & friends, if they had visited that destination for some sort of reference. But they had to face hurdles such as time difference, and cost and language barriers. It was difficult to contact the tourism offices at different destinations, especially if it was a foreign country. Thus, the tourism industry always looked for an easier way out. They all needed a moderator who could provide a one-stop solution catering to all their queries and needs, regarding a definite destination or the whole world.

RezLive.com thus proved to be an answer at a time when exclusive representation of destinations was merely a concept and not much of a reality. What started with a small but dynamic team is today, a business that is redefining the rules of the travel industry. The system is empowered by direct inventories of multiple suppliers, and their own contracting and price comparison filters, which gives the user the best possible rate in his/her local or preferred currency. There is no registration or joining fees, but there is a nominal markup on which every travel agent trades. The company has also come up with White Label and XML integration solutions for their travel partners to enhance their business and revenue.

RezLive.com has proved to be a boon for the tourism sector as, such large allotments and instant online confirmations were never possible before. In a very short span of 9 years, RezLive.com has made its mark and has won over 14 awards for the best 'B2B - Global Reservation System'. The company has a dedicated workforce of 250+ multilingual professionals, who provide assistance to travel agents, retail clients, tour operators and wholesale travel companies in the entire Asia Pacific and Middle East today. RezLive.com, in concept, is a B2B global reservation system that offers hotels, sightseeing and transfers under one window interface.
